

Aboriginal Arts Program

Presents
A reading with
Lee Maracle

One of the first Aboriginal people to be published in the early 1970's. She has since become the most prolific Aboriginal author in Canada and a recognized authority on issues pertaining to Aboriginal people and Aboriginal literature. She presently resides in Barrie, Ontario, where she works at the Barrie Native Friendship Centre and teaches sessional courses at the University of Toronto.

Saturday October 13, 2001 @ 3p.m.
The Trans Canada Pipeline Pavilion

Free Admission